Dads Approve Retirement Program For Employees

Commission Gives Codification Nod

Canyon City Commissioners passed an ordinance Monday night providing for a retirement program for city employees.

Commissioners voted to enter a program sponsored by the Texas Municipal Retirement System.

City employees will pay five per cent of their total salary toward their retirement plan.

The city's portion of payment will be decided by the TMRS office after all personnel information has been studied and an actuary calculated.

Dewey Bryant, city manager, explained that the plan would cost the city $3600 the first year.

"But the actuary will be recalculated Jan. 1, 1966 and the city's percentage will go down," Bryant said. "Ultimately the city will pay less than 1 per cent of the employees' full salary toward the retirement program."

The effective date of the retirement plan will be April 1, according to Bryant.

City dads also decided to include all city employees in the program. All employees of the city will become members in the system, according to information from the Texas Municipal Retirement System.

One of the highlights of the program, pointed out by Bryant, is the transfer benefits.

"A member retains his rights and credits in the system, including whatever prior service and current service rights he may have, if he terminates his employment with one participating city and goes to work for another member city within 60 months. He cannot withdraw his deposits in the interim and still have the benefits," Bryant explained to the commission.

Bryant also noted that with the retirement program, employees will no doubt stay longer, and Canyon with have a better chance of getting city employees from other towns.

"If a man works in a city with the program and he has a few years toward the retirement plan, he usually will not go to work for a city not participating in the program," he said.

A probationary period will not be enforced with new city employees.

"I think we should let the employee begin the program immediately when he starts to work," said Commissioner Jack Haley.

Retirement service becomes effective for a member who has at least 15 years of service and who has reached the age of 60 years.

A member with 28 years of service can retire regardless of age.

In other action Monday, Commissioners voted to have city ordinances codified by the Municipal Code Corporation.

Bryant said the total price for the year-long job would be $4,292.50.

The price would include 100 copies of the completed code codification, 15 bound volumes, and an editorial fee.

Payment to the company will be handled in three install-

Deadline On Feed Sign-Up

Friday is the deadline for growers to make application to take part in the 1965 feed grain program, according to Donald Lloyd, ASCS office manager here.

Lloyd reminded farmers that only those who participate in the feed grain program will be eligible for price support on 1965 crops of corn, barley and grain sorghum. He said support is made available through loans and price support payments.

Lloyd said the participating grower also earns a diversion payment for shifting part of his feed grain base to a conserving use.

He said minimum diversion is 20 percent of the individual farm's total feed grain base. Maximum diversion is 50 percent of the base or 25 acres if this is more.

Complete details on this phase of the program may be obtained at the ASCS office.

Illness Said Not Serious

A.W. Lair, former Randall County criminal district attorney, was in the hospital briefly this week.

He was kept overnight in Neblett Hospital after he became ill at his home Tuesday night. Physicians said his illness was not serious.

C-C Drive Is Today

Canyon Chamber of Commerce kicks off a membership drive (Thursday) today.

Final plans for the drive were made at a regular meeting of the board of directors held Monday night.

The one-day drive was to officially get underway at a breakfast at 7 o'clock Thursday morning in the Gold Room of the East Cafeteria at West Texas State University.

Chairman of the membership and finance committee of the Chamber of Commerce is R. E. "Barney" Barnard.

Team captains for the drive will be Joe Gidden, Jerry LaGrone and Bud Parker. The drive will be conducted by members of the Red Carpet Committee.

The team selling the most memberships will receive an emblem to wear on their Red Carpet Blazers. Reports from team captains will be heard as the three groups meet for coffee at 10:30 o'clock at Legion Hall.

A Chamber of Commerce spokesman said some $2,000 in new membership dues are

County Relief Rolls Are Cut

Several persons were cut off the county relief roll Monday as commissioners reviewed several cases.

Reasons for disqualification were varied. Some were making payments on television sets, cars or homes.

The court recently ruled that persons claiming direct aid from the county must take a pauper's oath.

In other business, the court refused to pay $52.38 of expenses incurred by Veterans Service Officer Rhea Smith during a recent trip to Washington, D.C.

Commissioners said the veterans service officer did not make arrangements with the court prior to the trip.

"He might be entitled to it but he should have cleared it with us before he took off," said Commissioner Bill Butler.

"Advance clearance is usually required," declared B.R. Jones. The court was unanimous in refusing to pick up the tab.

Agents of the Santa Fe Railway in a letter told the court that public funds should be used to install a flashing light signal at the crossing of the railroad and the paved county road south of Canyon High School.

Commissioner Clarence Beckman said the crossing is a dangerous one, especially since school buses cross it frequently.

Cost of the signal light would be about $7,000. The Santa Fe has agreed to maintain it if it is installed. Beckman has countered with an offer for his precinct to stand half the installation expense if the Santa Fe will stand the remainder.

Randall County Criminal District Attorney George Dowlen told commissioners he is disqualified to prosecute a case which is scheduled for hearing in county court this week.

Parade Of Homes Sunday

Canyon is on the grow. And Canyon businessmen and merchants are taking this opportunity to express their appreciation to builders, realtors, and those involved in meeting the growing demands of the building industry.

In this edition of The Canyon News, a special section is devoted to progress being made in the building industry in Canyon.

To highlight the week of emphasis on construction, a Parade of Homes will be featured beginning at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Ten beautiful homes will be featured in the Parade.

The homes (addresses are given in the special section) will be open all afternoon Sunday to the public.

Deadline For Tags March 31

Thursday of next week is the deadline for securing motor vehicle license tags, according to County Tax Assessor-Collector Bill Money.

Money said the court house annex at 3808 Bowie in Amarillo will be open Saturday until 5 o'clock for the purpose of selling license tags. The tax office in Canyon will be closed Saturday as usual.

Passenger car tags are being sold at several locations in Amarillo.

These include the Piggly Wiggly Store at Thirty-Fourth and Bell Avenue; McCartt's at Thirty-Fourth and Georgia; and Furr's at Forty-Sixth and Georgia.

Safeway at Thirty-Fourth and Western is selling passenger car tags from noon until 6 o'clock week days and all day Saturday.

Money said no checks will be accepted in Amarillo.

He said motor vehicle owners will need last year's registration certificate and certificate of title to obtain registration plates.

April 15 is the deadline for obtaining motor vehicle inspection stickers.

Prospects High For Wheat Crop

Snow brought smiles to Randall County farmers and ranchers last week as some .56 inch of moisture was recorded for a two-day period.

Falling snow covered ranch and farm lands, and brought bright prospects for a large wheat crop this year.

According to John Brazzil, Randall County agent, the moisture will prove effective for the crops.

"The moisture will be real effective although the amounts were not heavy," Brazzil explained. "This added to the rain which fell a few weeks ago, should bring a result of good prospects for the wheat crop."

He continued by pointing out that wind erosion had done very little damage in this area.

"Wheat is strong, and prospects are very good," he noted.

He also explained that he had received no reports that wheat was damaged during a cold spell Saturday.

"We recorded 8 degrees one night last week, which is probably a record cold temperature for this date," he recalled. "But we had no damage to crops,

Connally Seeks More Texas Tourist Trade

"We have raw material to attract tourist trade second to none in the United States. The next step is to develop it."

This is what Governor John B. Connally told members of the Panhandle Plains Historical Society Friday night at the annual banquet meeting of that group.

"I have recommended to the current legislature that an additional $241,000 be appropriated to the Texas Tourist Development Agency," he said. "This will bring the total expenditure in this area to about a half million dollars in the next two years. This is the bare necessity for encouragement of the vast tourist market awaiting our cultivation."

Connally said he also has proposed a national effort to attract tourists from overseas to this country. He pointed out that money spent by these foreign tourists could ease this country's balance of payments.

The governor listed this area's historic and scenic attractions.

"As for natural attractions," he said, "Palo Duro Canyon is one which needs no discussion before this audience. Our task is simply to tell the world what we already know."

Connally said there is a need to protect sites and articles of historical significance.

"I have urged expansion of our successful program of marking and preserving historical homes, frontier forts, missions and archaeological sites so valuable to the Texas heritage," the governor declared.

Connally praised members of the society for their determination to remember their beginning.

He said he was proud to be the first chief executive of this state to address the Panhandle Plains Historical Society in its 46 year history.

Connally was introduced by Senator Grady Hazlewood of Randall County. He said Hazlewood is the dean of the Texas Senate and said the Canyon senator is fondly referred to in Austin as "the old gray fox."

Connally arrived on the Plains amid a snow flurry. An aide said the governor was delighted with the snow.

Before the banquet he toured the Panhandle Plains Museum on the West Texas State University campus and presented the museum with a $100 check as a gift. The governor was given a life membership in the society.

Presiding over the banquet was Dr. James P. Cornette, retiring president of the society and president of West Texas State University.

The governor was accompanied to Canyon by Jerry Kolander, Amarillo attorney; Harry Clark of the state industrial commission; Dr. George Constant of the hospital and special schools board; and Bill Stinson, aide to the governor. Also in the party were members of the Texas legislature from this area.

Connally and his party was escorted to Canyon by officers of the Randall County Sheriff's Department and the State Highway Patrol.

Governor Gets Top Protection

Randall County Sheriff's Department took elaborate precautions in protecting Governor John B. Connally during his visit to Canyon last Friday.

Sheriff L.S. "Slim" Johnston's car preceded the car occupied by the state's chief executive from Amarillo to Canyon Friday afternoon.

The governor's car was followed by a State Highway Patrol Car.

A mile and half ahead of the official party a highway patrol car led the way with officers inspecting the right of way and paying special attention to freeway overpasses.

Officers were stationed at all signal lights in Canyon. At the museum there was an officer outside, an officer at the door and officers on each floor of the building. These men were at their posts an hour and a half before the governor's arrival.

Sheriff Johnston had obtained a list of employes of the museum, of the cafeteria where the banquet at which the governor spoke was held and a complete list of guests and seating arrangements for the banquet.

Officers were at the banquet hall three hours before the governor's arrival.

During the banquet, there was an officer seated inside the banquet hall at the east door and one at the west door.

An officer was outside at each entrance.

All officers, with the exception of one highway patrolman, were in plain clothes.

"The governor does not like to have uniformed policemen around him," Johnston ex-

Society Elects Canyon Banker

Levi Cole, Canyon banker, was named president of the Panhandle Plains Historical Society Friday.

He succeeds Dr. James P. Cornette in that office.

Cole was named president as the society held its annual meeting in the Fine Arts Hall of the Panhandle Plains Museaum.

Cole is a native of Lockney. He moved to Canyon in 1923 and became associated with First National Bank. He has been in the banking business here since that time and currently is president of First National.

He has been a member of the historical society for the past 20 years and became a member of the board about five years ago. He served as second vice-president of the society last year.

Cole is a member of the Methodist Church and over the years has been active in Chamber of Commerce, Lions Club, Rotary, Boy Scouts and other community undertakings. Cole is a collector of art, stamps and coins.

Other board officers named include Raymond Thompson of Vega, first vice-president, and Robert Carr Vincent of Boise City, Okla., second vice-president.

Two new members of the executive committee are yet to be elected.

Hold-over members of the executive committee include the three officers, Dr. Cornette, Lewis P. Fields, Newton Harrell, C. Boone McClure, Hamlin Y. Overstreet and Floyd V. Studer.

Retiring from the board are E.R. Archambeau and E.C. Ochner.

Dr. Cornette told directors that at the time he spoke Friday afternoon $212,233.32 was on hand for construction of the first portions of a proposed $800,000 addition to the museum.

He told the group he is confident that ample funds will be raised to construct the first two floors of the proposed addition.

He said that the first two floors will be added immediate-

COVERING FUMBLES
by
Dean Mitch Jones

Much of my difficulty can be explained by facts that I still drive a Packard automobile, carry a pocket watch, and am opposed to serving liquor in the Student Union Building.

by Troy Martin FROM THE CANYON RIM

I saw "For Heaven's Sake" Thursday night and then participated in the discussion period that followed.

I noticed that some folks walked out of the theater shortly after the musical got under way. We can understand their taking offense after seeing only a part of it.

I sincerely believe that these people would not have been offended had they remained in the audience until the final curtain.

However, I do not criticize those who walked out or those who find fault with the musical. The people who produced the musical must realize that it dealt with religion and that this subject is one that is highly personal and highly sensitive.

Some of the lessons I got from the musical came from portions that could have been construed as most offensive.

The "Gimme God Blues" portrayed a girl who asked for and received about everything. Nothing satisfied her until she finally realized her sense of values was warped and things she had always thought she wanted were not the things she wanted at all.

When she finally hit bottom she was ready to start rebuilding her life. As portrayed in the musical she had rolled "craps in the dice game of life" but when she lost she really had won because she was ready to start over with a perfected sense of values.

The narrator in "The Rap He Took for Me" seemingly scoffs at the idea that Christ took the rap for him. Then soberly asks the question whether or not the rap that's really pinned on him is his very doubt that Christ had actually died for him.

Another scene that might have been offensive if not witnessed to conclusion was set in a bar room in which two successful businessmen decided that Christ was a flop because he received no acclaim in the business and social world.

Then at the end of the scene, the two wonder why, with all their success, their names are not household words like the name of Christ.

Incredulously the two face each other over cocktail glasses following their verbal measurement of Christ by modern secular standards and finally in awe admit that Christ is called the most successful man that ever lived.

Emphasizing their misplaced values, they wonder why.

In the discussion period, I heard only one criticism of the production. This was based on its connection with the National Council of Churches. On the whole, I am highly critical of the NCC.

However, I would be no more apt to condemn "For Heaven's Sake" for this reason that I was to condemn a desert irrigation project I once saw in Tripoli just because Mussolini had promoted it.

The days of states are numbered. One by one the prerogatives of states have been eroded away by an ever stronger central government.

There was a time when, through exercise of local responsibility, the flood of federal power might have been stemmed. That day is gone.

The reason is simple. States and local governments must turn to federal government for almost anything that costs a great deal of money.

The federal government has dried up sources of tax revenue which might have been used by the states. In a sentence Uncle Sam has the purse strings and money makes the mare go even in government.

The people started it. They asked for more and more and more from central government. Since government does not earn it must take whatever it is to give.

So central government gave more and more and it took more and more.

So states, counties and municipalities continued to ask for more. Now there is not a state in the Union that is not hard put to find something else to tax just to meet the minimum financial burden it must carry.

As a result, states, counties and cities are looking to the federal government for money to sustain almost every phase of their activity. With aid must come control.

The latest control proposed extends into the area of voting. The administration proposes that federal power be extended into elections of local officials in towns, cities, counties and states.

The handwriting is on the wall for the state system.

Governor John Connally was most appreciative of the paintings of Olive Vandruff Bugbee.

We don't know much about art but we know what we like and we agree with the governor.

West Texas State University is fortunate to have the services of so able a person. Mrs. Bugbee is curator of art at the Panhandle Plains Museum.

Her paintings are growing in value every day. She is an asset to her school and her area and we're glad she chose to live here.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mullican and sons, Bill and Bryan, of Lubbock visited Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bourn.

Other guests in the Bourn home Sunday were their son and daughter and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Wes Bourn and Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Whitley, all of Canyon.

There oughta be a law--

The adage holds true today, and I learned the hard way Sunday.

I decided there oughta be a law against women driving cars--especially if they know as little about the mechanics of an auto as I do.

I was returning from a week end trip Sunday, when Old Bessie began to sputter. Well, I nursed her along for about 60 miles, driving slower and slower all the time.

She kept jumping, as though she had bees in her tank, but relentlessly (and I might add densely) Margo kept pushing and urging.

Finally, about five miles south of Hereford, she just curled up and slept.

The wind was blowing, the clock showed a little after 8 p.m., and I couldn't see a farm house light anywhere.

I waved to several cars as they whizzed by, but my flagging arms were ignored.

Finally I locked the car and started on my trek to town.

I had gotten but a few feet from the old girl (car that is) when I noticed a car turning around.

Sure enough, someone had come to rescue me and my dilapidated vehicle.

As they pulled up, I quickly walked to the window and begged for help.

The man and his wife were gracious as they handed me a flash light, and opened the hood of the car. Immediately he found the trouble.

"You've got a coil wire burned into," he reported.

As far as I was concerned, he was talking Greek. I merely nodded and kept my mouth shut.

Soon he had cut back some stuff around some wires, and had wired the two pieces directly together--or something.

I started the car, they followed me into town, and I quickly found a filling station for some permanent repairs.

But on Sunday night what's open in the way of garages?

Let me tell you. .not much.

One kindly man finally got some tape, wrapped it around the bare wires, and told me to be careful on the rest of my journey.

Off I ventured, and surprise of surprises, I made it home with no more trouble.

Needless to say, my car went to the shop early Monday. And along with a new coil wire, I received some instructions as to what to do when such things happen again.

As I said..there oughta be a law--

Kappa Alpha fraternity at West Texas State University has broken the world's record for the longest basketball game.

The members and pledges played against each other Friday and Saturday for 30 hours and five minutes.

The score seemed relatively unimportant, but some of the pertinent facts included how many blisters were recorded after the pounding, consumption of how many oranges and soft drinks and number of fouls.

Only 10 blisters were recorded. Some say the reason the number was so low is because of showers and changes of socks during rest periods.

Also, the group consumed 103 bottles of pop, 30 sandwiches, four gallons of chicken soup, 73 candy bars and three dozen oranges.

A total of 284 personal fouls were called. Jerry Richardson, former Buff gridder and now defensive back for the National Football League Los Angeles Rams, had 50 fouls called against him.

Oh, and yes, Charley Thomas shot the longest field goal--44 feet and six inches.

Now that takes alert record keepers to know the length of each shot. Agreed?

The cookie sale set a new record for the Canyon Scout Council. Last year's total of 5,232 boxes was topped by Scouts and Brownies this year with a total of 5,940 boxes sold.

"We want to express our appreciation to all persons who purchased cookies, whether by the box or by the case. Each person did so much to help in our building fund", said Mrs. Dean Nicholas, chairman of the Cookie Sale.

"Canyon Girl Scouts are presently looking over plans for their new scout house, which we plan on constructing soon. Every box of cookies sold helped our building fund goal just a little further", she added. Cookies will be delivered by Scouts and Brownies March 27 through April 3.

Top saleswomen in the recent Girl Scout cookie sale conducted by Canyon Girl Scout council were named recently. Shown presenting the two winners with their gifts is Mrs. Dean Nicholas. Winners were, from left, Debbi Rossi, daughter of Mrs. Tony Rossi, and a member of Girl Scout troop 12, and Lanee Welch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Welch, and a member of Brownie troop 15.

Rob Barnard, son of Mr. and Mrs. R.E. Barnard of Canyon, here practices for his upcoming recital. The senior performance will be presented Sunday afternoon, beginning at 4:15 p.m. in Canyon High School Auditorium.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy B. Alvery and children, Jim, Jr. and Mari, were in Pampa Sunday afternoon to visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Alvey.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Billington of Canyon spent last week-end in Oklahoma visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Offord at Frederick and the Howard Offord family at Altus.

God And Country Award

Pat Jarrett, member of Boy Scout troop 66, was presented with his God and Country Award Sunday in a presentation ceremony at First Presbyterian Church. Mrs. R.P. Jarrett, Jr. is shown pinning the award on, as Rev. John Lars Hamerson, center, and Dr. Jarrett look on. Attending the services were officials of the troop and troop members in uniform, Oscar Hinger, district advancement chairman, and Louis Machuca, district scout executive. Pat was given a letter from the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church congratulating him on the award.

Death Claims Dr. C.A. Pierle

An era in chemistry at West Texas State University ended Thursday with the death of Dr. Chester Arthur Pierle.

Dr. Pierle, the influencing figure in the growth of the chemistry department at WT for 31 years, died in Neblett Hospital.

The retired chemistry professor had lived in Canyon since 1922, after teaching in Peking, China for 11 years.

He was born in Martinsburg, Indiana, and received a bachelor degree from DePauw University in Greencastle, Indiana.

His education continued in Pennsylvania where he received a masters degree from Lehigh University in Bethlehem, Pa.

Following his graduation from the University of Wisconsin with a Ph. D. degree, Dr. Pierle travelled to Peking, China where he taught for 11 years at Tsing Hua College.

He accepted a teaching position at WT in 1922, and a reformation of the chemistry department began almost immediately.

When Dr. Pierle came to West Texas State, the department offered only a one-year curriculum.

Within three years of his arrival, Dr. Pierle had boosted the curriculum to four years of chemistry courses. A chemistry major was offered by the department, and since 1931 the master's degree has been granted.

But his energies were not confined to the university. Dr. Pierle taught a Sunday school class for many years at the First Christian Church in Canyon. He was a member of Sigma Xi, honorary science fraternity, and was a Master Mason and a 32nd Degree Mason.

DR. CHESTER A PIERLE

Following his retirement in 1954, Dr. Pierle worked for Continental Products Corporation in Canyon. He was engaged in analyzing and treating potable and industrial water in Canyon and removing harmful bacteria.

Funeral services for Dr. Pierle were conducted in the First Baptist Church of Canyon at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Dr. Strauss Atkinson, pastor, officiated.

Burial followed in Dreamland Cemetery under the direction of LaGrone Funeral Chapel.

Active pallbearers included John Sims, Carl Spratt, George G. Heard, Ross Wilson, Dr. Foy Shackleford, Dr. W.J. Wooten, Dr. Lindsey Taylor and Dr. Millard Nobles.

Fraternity Sets World Cage Record

A new world's basketball record has been set at West Texas State University.

Members and pledges of Kappa Alpha Order social fraternity set a wo. d's record for the longest basketball game ever to be played.

Recorded time for the game was 30 hours and five minutes.

The game was played in the WT Fieldhouse and began at 2 p.m. Friday and ended at 8:05 p.m. Saturday.

The boys broke the old record of 26 hours and 9 minutes.

Member teammates included Dave Dowell, Jerry Richardson, Bruce Kimery, Charley Thomas and Dale Burrows.

Pledge squad consisted of Randy Dowell, Earl Jackson, Mike Ferguson, Andy Tonne and Skip Moore.

Final score stood at 1,695 for the members and 1,497 for the pledges.

Burrows, a senior who coached the WT freshman team last year, led all scorers with 548 points. Moore, who earned a freshman letter at WT this year, paced the pledges with 360 points.

Richardson, a former Buff gridder now a defensive back for the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, fouled 50 times to take the lead in that department.

The longest shot was made by Thomas, estimated at 44 feet and 6 inches.

Home from Earlham College in Richmond, Indiana this week is Eugene "Jeep" Blasdel. Eugene has been visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Blasdel, and other friends and relatives during his stay.

The choir also has engagements in Tulia, Amarillo, and Lubbock.

and I've heard of no cattle lost."

Temperatures dipped into the low teens and down to 8 degrees Thursday, Friday and Saturday, according to the West Texas State University geography department.

Weather forecast for the remainder of this week predicted more moisture for the Panhandle, and temperatures in Canyon continued to dip at midweek.

ly and the society is prepared to go as far toward the completion of the project as funds will allow.

He noted that about $54,000 has been contributed to the museum building fund since an executive committee meeting in February.

Architect John Hannon of Amarillo displayed plans for the four-floor addition which he said will provide an additional 44,000 square feet of floor space for the museum. This would double the museum's display area.

Dr. Cornette also announced several memorial spaces.

Killgore Foundation contributed $50,000 asking for memorial space for Florence Lee and C.L. Killgore.

Evetts Haley contributed $30,000 in memory of Nita Stewart Haley.

The Turner Estate contributed $14,500 reserving a memorial space for Willie A. Turner.

R. T. Alexander pledged $15,000 in recognition of Rev. and Mrs. C.W. Alexander and Mrs. R.T. Alexander.

Grady Hazelwood contributed $15,000 in recognition of his wife, Andrene Smith Hazlewood, and his mother, Mrs. Loula Douglas Hazlewood.

Members of the board heard and accepted reports from several committees.

ments, according to Bryant.

"This has been needed for a long time," said Commissioner Paul Lindsey.

"This will be a help to each of the commissioners in looking up what ordinances we have on the books concerning any subject," said Mayor C. E. Thompson. "If we have a question asked us, we can quickly turn to the subject and find out exactly what has been done in that field."

"Also it will do away with many of the ordinances which are outdated or have been overruled by state and federal laws, Commissioner George Ritter said.

Another benefit of the codification was pointed out by Bryant.

"We will be able to analyze our ordinances quickly and thoroughly," Bryant said. "If we are not very strong in an area we will be able to know exactly what we should do. Also the company will make some recommendations concerning what we need in the way of ordinances."

The company will research all ordinances which have been passed for the city since the corporation of the town, Bryant explained.

Commissioners also decided to share costs with the county in insuring the contents of the Randall County-City Library in Canyon.

Bryant said definite figures were not available at meeting time, but details would be worked out.

"We are interested in sharing the expense of insuring the library, but before definite action is taken we would like to see some final figures," Thompson said.

Meeting date change for the commission was discussed. Tentative plans call for the dads to meet on the first and third Mondays of each month. Meeting date now is second and fourth Mondays.

Vote canvass of the April 6 election will be held Monday, April 12, in the City Hall. New commissioners will be sworn into office at that meeting.

Commissioners voted to raise the automobile allowance for the city manager from $50 a month to $100 a month.

plained.

Johnston himself sat just in front of the head table near the governor. Another officer was seated in the rear of the hall.

Three officers equipped with shortwave radio were stationed in the kitchen.

Johnston told his men that if trouble were to start each man should stick to his post. The trouble was to be handled by the man nearest it and if he needed help, one or more of the officers in the kitchen was to rush to his assistance.

The governor's party was escorted back to Amarillo following the banquet. Johnston said much the same procedure was followed in his return as was used in bringing him to Canyon earlier.

"Anyone nutty enough to try something would have figured that Canyon, being a little town, would have been the ideal place to try it," Johnston explained. "I'd rather take extra precautions and have nothing happen than to be sorry after something did happen."

Johnston expressed appreciation to officers of the Canyon Police Department, Rangers, Highway Patrol and West Texas State University security police for assistance given the sheriff's department in furnishing protection for the governor.

New president of the Panhandle Plains Historical Society is Levi Cole. Cole has been a member of the society for some 20 years. Besides being president of Canyon First National Bank, he is a collector of art and coins as well as a garden enthusiast.

needed if the Chamber's program of work is to be carried out this year.

Canyon Chamber of Commerce has 88 business firm members and 96 individual members.

Chamber Manager Roland Black this week mailed out to members a brochure containing a description and statement of purposes as well as this year's program of work for the Canyon Chamber.

The brochure also contains a list of the Chamber membership.

Among the more important projects of the Canyon Chamber for the current year is the effort to secure a school of pharmacy for West Texas State.

The program of work also includes projects which range from efforts to secure industry for Canyon to beautification and improvement of the community.

The chamber has committees on agriculture, business development, community development, education, industrial development, legislation, membership and finance and tourist development.

Dowlen said the case involves a man charged with driving while intoxicated. He said that before he became criminal district attorney he talked with the defendant and considered acting as defense attorney at that time.

Dowlen has made arrangements for the Potter County district attorney's office to handle the prosecution.

The court formally requested the State Highway Department to make a survey and fix right of way lines for proposed Loop 335 from US Highways 60 and 87 at Hollywood Corner west and north to the Potter County line.

In other business the court delayed action a week on purchase of a car for the sheriff's department and a dry copying machine for the same department.

Five bids were submitted on the car and one bid on the copying machine.

J. M. Brietling spent several days last week in Lubbock visiting with his daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Phillips and children Darrell, Leroy and Wanda.

Ecuadorian Walking To New York School

A real live king of the road passed through Canyon over the week end.

Mario Vicente Lara of Quito, Ecuador says he has walked most of the way from his home en route to school in New York. He estimates the distance at a little more than 8,000 miles.

Mario rested in Canyon Saturday long enough to smoke a cigarette, give his story to the newspaper and pick up $5 from well wishers before moving on to Amarillo.

Mario started his trek in mid-February last year. He says he has walked most of the way although he accepts rides when they are offered.

At the time he arrived in Canyon, Lara had 40 cents in his pocket. His last meal had been eaten at noon at Dawn.

He said he eats whatever people give him and has slept variously in barns, hotels, homes and churches. He spent Friday night in a hotel in Hereford. He said a Hereford church paid for his lodging there.

Mario, who proudly declares himself to be of Indio-Spanish descent, said he has 12 years of formal education and was teaching in an Indian school at Quito when he and a companion set off for New York.

The companion had to give up when his feet played out on him in El Salvador.

Mario has crossed Columbia, Panama, Nicaragua, Honduras, El Salvador, Guatamala and Mexico. He crossed into Texas early this month and will push on into Oklahoma after a brief rest.

Mario carries a 90-pound pack on his back. He has had a little trouble with his feet but except for that, he says, his health has been excellent.

Mario has had some real hair-raising adventures during his hike. He said someone shot at him in Nicaragua. He didn't mind that as much as what happened to him in Costa Rica. There he was attacked by a swarm of vultures. He beat them off with a club.

He had another scalp-tingling experience in Mexico. High winds almost blew him off the road.

"I had to dig a hole in the ground to get out of the wind," he declared.

Mario has a quick mind. He understood almost no English when he started his trip. He now is able to carry on a conversation in that tongue and hopes to be talking it fluently by the time he reaches New York.

He says he expects to attend school on a scholarship when he reaches his destination. When he has completed his education, he declares he will return to Ecuador and become an advertising man.

Mario weighs about 160 pounds and is 5 feet, 7 inches tall. He says he can walk about 30 miles a day.

His destination still is about 2,000 miles away. He plans to reach it in time to enroll for the fall semester.

Mario Vicente Lara is shown here with the pack he has carried on an 8,000-mile trek from Quito, Ecuador. He is en route to New York to attend school and has been on the road more than a year.

Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe

No matter how you look at it, this car makes a lot of sense.

If you're interested in value (and who isn't), the eleven features above give you a good idea why more intermediate-size car buyers are thinking Chevelle.

If you're looking for a wide power choice, Chevelle starts out with a standard 120-hp Six, an ideal city performer. After that you may order from a variety of engines that turn it into an even greater highway performer.

Room? Large door openings. Wide curved side windows for extra shoulder room. Great front and rear leg room. Those four, five or six passengers have it made. And so do you. Chevelle may seat like a big car but it handles like a smaller car.

Comfort? Thick wall-to-wall carpeting in Malibu models. Foam-cushioned seats. Easy-to-read instrument panel. The whole interior looks like those in cars costing far more.

Come on down to our showroom and take a drive soon. Chevelle begins to make even more sense after you've gone a couple of miles.

Vistors Says Churches Play Role In Marriages

Girl chasing boy, boy chasing girl. The ring of marriage finally stops the chase, and the two individuals find the game is being played by different rules.

This is only one of the concepts of romantic love which has some fallacious aspects to it, according to Dr. John Drakeford of Fort Worth.

Drakeford visited last week in Canyon and spoke to various groups at the First Baptist Church.

His main theme, throughout the two and a half days here, was the family.

"I feel that the greatest area where help is needed is in the breakdown of the family life," Drakeford pointed out. "And no institution is in the unique position to help people and families as the church," he continued.

Through speaking engagements and a counseling center in Fort Worth, Drakeford is carrying on an educational process, which he thinks is necessary for better marriage understanding.

"If we educate people before they marry, counseling after marriage will be much easier," he noted.

But Drakeford has found that many folks just don't want to be counseled.

"When they come to us they are afraid, or seem to be afraid, that we will point out some reasons why they are not compatible or good mates.

"They are reluctant to come to us for counseling," Drakeford said. "They are wrapped up in this romantic love idea and forget about compatibility and religious commitments."

He noted that there should be a combination of all three aspects in marriage.

"We should have romance in marriage. We should have a marriage with religious commitments behind it, and people should consider the companionship of their mate," he stated.

But, according to Drakeford, the pre-marriage center is not faring too well.

"I thought when we opened it we would have people flocking to the center, but they stay away in droves," he said.

He continued by explaining that apparently people have looked at the romantic idea of marriage, and forgotten the other two important factors: companionship, and the religious committment.

"They are basing so much of their relationship on the chasing, or the 'only one person' idea, or the 'falling in love' concept," he noted. "Marriage has to include all three."

Drakeford was born in Sydney, Australia. He grew up there and worked his way through school.

"I worked during the days and attended school at nights. Needless to say, it was a long time through school," he recalled.

But an education was precious to this man. He received his B.A. degree from the University of Sydney, and received a graduate diploma from Sydney Teachers College.

Then in 1940 he graduated from New South Wales Baptist Seminary. He served as a pastor in Australia for three years, and was chaplain in the Australian Army in the Pacific Islands.

He came to the United States in 1954, and served as pastor of University Heights Baptist Church in Stillwater, Oklahoma, for 3 1/2 years.

And his education didn't stop in his home country. Once in the U.S., Drakeford received degrees from Texas Christian University, Brite Divinity School and Southwestern Seminary.

At the present time he is professor of psychology and counseling and director of the Baptist Marriage and Family Counseling Center at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary.

The author of several books drew sharp comparisons between his native country and his adopted America.

"America is the greatest country in the world," he emphasized. "Doors to opportunities are open to everyone."

He continued by noting, "It is not easy to renounce the citizenship of the country where you are born, but I did it because I think America is a great country."

"Anyone who wants to do something has the opportunity to do it. If you are born here, you may not realize what opportunities you have. But come to this country from another, and you will see them," he explained.

He also outlined differences in the school systems from the two countries.

"We have only six weeks off from school each year and this comes at Christmas, which is summer over there. The seasons are reversed," he explained.

"When I was in school, if we wanted to take tennis or sports, we would have to do it on our own time after school and on Saturdays.

Another difference in the school systems was pointed out.

"If you wanted to get a degree in a certain field, you took mainly that subject and none other.

"If you got a degree in English, you would study history and English and perhaps another subject, but not a whole list of subjects, the way they do in universities here.

"We got a solid background in the subject we were studying, and related subjects, but that was all.

"You see, we would get a basic background in the other subjects in high schools. When we graduated from high school, we had an equivalent of a junior college education, because of the holidays you have here and the three-months off in the summer," he said.

With this background of two countries, education in both, Drakeford is working to educate the people of the United States in family living.

"We need to preserve the family, and the best place to start is through the church," he concluded.

Savings, Loan Interests At Canyon Credit Union

Savings and loans are a primary interest of folks at Canyon Credit Union.

"From a community standpoint", said Wayne Hilton, managing officer of the Credit Union, "we create additional facilities for residents of Randall County and Canyon to save money, and make additional funds available for loans to people in the community."

Since its organization in May, 1964, the Credit Union has loaned over $500,000 to residents of the community. Only members of the Credit Union are eligible to apply for a loan.

The Credit Union serves all residents of Randall County, with the exception of Amarillo. All persons living within a 17-mile radius of Randall County courthouse are eligible for membership in the Credit Union.

Dividends of 5 per cent are paid on all accounts with the company, which has grown from a membership of more than 150 last fall to a current membership of nearly 300. Membership is expected to double in six months.

Officers of the organization are J. Keith Jones, president, Riley Troth, vice-president, Aubrey Crossland, vice-president, Jack Jones, secretary, and Wayne Hilton, managing officer and treasurer.

Serving as chairman of supervisory committee is Jess L. Rhodes. Dick Dawdy is chairman of the credit committee.

Canyon Credit Union also stands ready to assist with other types of loans, including debt consolidation loans and automobile loans.

The Credit Union is designed to assist the member with any provident or productive need, to help him get more out of his earning power.

In the power of the Canyon Credit Union, as in other credit unions, is the opportunity to add to community prosperity.

Pre-Planning May Be Key To Park Ventures

"A word to the wise.."

E.J. Boehm, Palo Duro Canyon State Park Superintendent, made a few suggestions this week to visitors of the scenic playground in Canyon's backyard.

Many times each year visitors of all ages have ventured into the thick underbrush or onto the tall ridges of the Canyons, and have had trouble getting back to their starting point.

Some get lost, others get stranded, still others may get injured.

Boehm's suggestions seem simple, and may hold important clues to safe adventures in the vast canyons.

"The biggest problem people have is in planning their hikes," Boehm said. "They begin their ventures too late. The sun goes down and it gets dark. And when it gets dark in the canyon, it's really dark."

The superintendent also explained that children are often allowed to venture into the underbrush without supervision.

"The canyons can be tricky. They look small, but they are vast. Children begin to climb, and the ground gives way, and they are in trouble," Boehm continued.

But Boehm encourages more climbing and investigating of the canyons.

"This is one activity we offer in the canyons that every member of the family can participate in.

"I enjoy climbing myself. We want people to do more climbing. We just don't want anyone to get hurt or lost," Boehm noted.

And to help travelers, campers, and visitors, the park presents each car load of passengers with a small map of the canyons.

"The map outlines the best points in the park. But we don't have a good road yet to the Sunday Canyon, which is the most scenic of the canyons," he continued.

With the use of the map; some brief, yet thorough planning, and supervision of children, Boehm almost guarantees a mishap-free stay in Palo Duro State Park.

"All it takes is some preplanning. People should begin their venture early enough to get to a certain destination and return before the sun goes down.

"Then if children are in the group, an adult should be with them at all times," he urged.

So to save family worries, search parties made up of Canyon Emergency Unit volunteers, and park rangers with portable radios, Palo Duro State Park visitors are urged to follow simple rules.

And go to the climbing. There are hundreds of crevices, ridges and caves that may not have been thoroughly investigated since the Indian habitants.

Student Honored For Paper

A paper written by Mrs. Sue Carole Kidd, Amarillo senior at West Texas State University, will be read Friday in Abilene at the convention of Alpha Chi, national honor society.

Mrs. Kidd was one of seven WTSU Alpha Chi members who submitted papers to a judging committee at Wayland College. The paper submitted by Marion Henson, Canyon junior, was selected as an alternate.

Title of Mrs. Kidd's paper is "The Emergence of a New Dominant Man," and Miss Henson wrote on "The Technological Revolution and the Scholar." Both papers were based on the convention's general theme, "The Role of the Scholar in a World in Ferment."

Mrs. Kidd will read her paper during the Friday afternoon session at Hardin-Simmons University. Dr. George de Schweinitz, professor of English at WTSU and a sponsor of Alpha Chi, will preside at the session.

Mrs. Kidd is a member of Phi Alpha Theta, national history fraternity, and is social chairman of Sigma Tau Delta, national English fraternity. She is also historian for Kappa Delta Pi, national education fraternity.

Local Meet Cancelled, To Levelland

"We scored our highest number of points this year at the Levelland Relay Track Meet," stated Coach E. J. "Jeep" Webb.

Canyon High School's track members tallied a total of 31 points at the meet which was held last Saturday. Snyder High School won the overall meet.

Six members of the track team at CHS participated including Wayne Brewer, Tommy Sanford, Richard Triplett, Wilson Howard, George Cox, and Sherman Smith.

The local team placed second in pole vault; third in the 440 yard dash; and fifth in the 100 yard dash. They also took a third and fifth place in the 220 yard dash and placed fifth in the spring relays.

The track meet which was scheduled to be held in Canyon last Saturday was cancelled due to the snow and will not be rescheduled according to Webb.

Bank Promotes City Building

The First National Bank is playing an important role in the development of Canyon through the building industry.

The bank provides three important services without which the wheels of the building industry would be slowed if not halted.

The first is interim financing. It takes a lot of money to perform the magic of converting a vacant lot into a home for a Canyon family.

In securing any long range loan there is a lot of red tape and much time is consumed from the time an application is made until it finally is approved. Yet carpenters must be paid and materials must be purchased.

For these things the contractor needs ready cash, especially if he has several houses under construction at the same time.

He turns to the bank for interim financing. Interim financing is just what the term implies. The bank provides ready cash to be used by the contractor during the consturction period.

Not all of Canyon's multi-million dollar building industry is confined to new construction. Many thousands are spent each year for repair, remodeling and additions to existing homes.

First National Bank has a service to provide money for these things. It is Title I FHA loan. Through Title I a home owner may borrow up to $3,500 and repay it over a five-year period.

There also is a service for those needing a little more than can be provided under Title I. This is known as an insured credit loan. Its features are about the same as those of Title I except that it will provide up to $5,000 which may be repaid over a five-year period.

First National Bank, through its financing services, occupies a key position in Canyon's march of progress.

Taylor-Foster Development Helps Growth

In 1955, a new name in real estate development, Taylor-Foster Development Company, began in Canyon.

The company owns the tract of land known as Pioneer Estates, located in the eastern section of Canyon. Included as owners and operators of the Taylor - Foster Development are Hosea Foster, Wilford Taylor, Sr., Wilford Taylor, Jr., and Jack Taylor.

The company-owned land was originally purchased from Mamie Bradford and Ermee Herell, daughters of L.G. Conner, founder of Canyon. A total of 65.29 acres was included in the original tract.

The name, "Pioneer Estates," was chosen in a contest to name the development. Mrs. E.W. Woods entered the name.

The company is also in charge of platting tracts of land to sell to individuals who wish to build homes in that location. Development of Canyon, through building of new homes in Pioneer Estates, is a major contribution of Taylor-Foster Development.

For future development of the area, 161 acres in tract, unplatted, is also held by the company.

Fuel In Home Supplied By Pioneer NGC

Fuel gas for residents of Canyon and Randall County is supplied by Pioneer Natural Gas Company.

H.R. King is manager of the Canyon office of the utility company.

Most of the gas supplied to builders, as well as residents, is used for heating and air conditioning fuels. Gas air conditioners are available for homes, and gas lights, to make homes as safe at night as during the day, are also supplied.

Designing of duct work for air conditioning is usually handled by both builders and Pioneer Natural Gas. Designing and calibrating of gas heating needs is also done.

Modern conveniences, including gas clothes dryers, hot water heaters, ranges, refrigerators and many others, are all parts of many modern, new homes in Canyon and Randall County, and are made possible by the service of folks at Pioneer Natural Gas, serving the Canyon area since 1928.

Crowe-Gulde Cement Boosts City Growth

Crowe-Gulde Cement Company of Canyon furnishes residents with a complete line of building supplies.

As a Canyon company, offering full services to the local residents, it is operated by Canyon personnel.

Dick Barrett is manager of the Canyon company. He came here from Happy in 1937. He and his wife, formerly Suzanne Stevenson, have four children, John Earl, Harold Lee, Bonita Sue and Jay Rodney.

C.T. Crowe and John F. Gulde founded the first Crowe-Gulde Company as a builder's supply firm in Amarillo in 1926.

Canyon's plant was built in 1956.

In 1957 the company pioneered prestressed concrete. Precast, prestressed concrete, used in building and bridge construction, is completely fireproof.

The use of single tee and double tee spans eliminates the need for interior columns and provides a continous span ranging to 123 feet.

From their beginning, Crowe-Gulde has worked to help builders, buyers and home owners with their building needs.

Burgess Pledges Phi Delta Theta

Steven Preston Burgess of Canyon has pledged Phi Delta Theta social fraternity at Texas Technological College.

Burgess is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S.P. Burgess of Canyon.

Visiting with Mr. and Mrs. E.C. Berry during the week end was their son, Julian, who is a student at North Texas State College in Denton.

Also visiting the Berry family were Mr. and Mrs. Billy Burnam of Lubbock. Mrs. Burnam is a daughter of the Berry's.

Improvement Interest At Thompson's

Home improvement, rather than home building, buying or trading, is a major interest of Thompson Hardware.

For, at Thompson's, long a landmark in Canyon and Randall County, you'll find folks are interested in your individual problems, whether it be decorating or redecorating.

Thompson's was first begun July 1, 1908, with the opening of the store. Things being done mostly by horse and mule in those days, folks at Thompson's found a big business in saddlery and harnessmaking. Hardware and implement supply, however, was the first real, big business of the store.

As the country grew, so did Thompson's. From sale of kerosene lamps, coal oil stoves, wagons and buggies, grew a business offering furniture, hardware supplies, tools, garden supplies, paint, and everything to make each home more attractive.

Also to be found at Thompson's is plenty of help. Folks at Thompson's are available for all kinds of advice about tools, and necessary equipment needed to remodel or redecorate.

Thompson's, on the square in downtown Canyon, would like to help you out next time any kind of hardware, paint, furniture, or housewares are needed.

Canyon Shows Vast Growth In 5 Years

Canyon is one of the fastest growing towns in the Texas Panhandle.

Since the beginning of the present decade new building has amounted to $11,678,246.

This figure does not include cost of such structures as the Trail Motor Hotel which is just south of the city limits or the new Stevenson Pontiac house just across the E-Way from Buffalo Stadium.

Niether does it include most homes built in Hunsley Hills which recently was annexed by the city of Canyon.

In 1960 the city issued 114 permits for $2,395,078 worth of construction. There were 68 permits issued for residences costing $874,250. Ten commercial permits were issued for a total of $103,921. Alterations and additions came to $51,375 while non-taxable construction, including three college buildings came to $1,365,532.

In 1961 a total of 150 permits were issued by the city for $1,230,524 worth of building. There were 73 residential permits for $933,700 and 11 commercial permits for $80,988. Alterations and additions came to $65,636.

Non-taxable construction such as churches and schools came to $150,200.

The following year was a banner building year in Canyon with 150 permits for $4,005,694 worth of construction being issued in 1962. Residential permits numbered 77 for $1,049,-331 worth of residences. That year only five commercial permits for $32,000 worth of construction were issued.

Alteration and additions came to $59,278 while non-taxable construction leaped to $2,865,-085 as West Texas State University went into a building program.

Building in 1963 came to $2,246,524. City records show that 181 permits were issued during the year. There were 67 permits for new residential construction and four permits for commercial building. The remainder was for additions and alterations.

Last year the city issued 168 building permits for a total of $1,379,118. Of this amount, $1,103,804 was residential construction, $172,533 commercial building and $102,781 was for alterations and additions.

Through March 19 of this year 31 permits had been issued for $421,308 worth of building. Of this amount $274,-100 was for residential construction, $73,608 for commercial and $73,600 for alterations and additions.

Canyon appears to be headed for another banner year of building.

RAR HOMES of Canyon built this charming one-story home last year. The house fits beautifully into the Panhandle area with its modern brick and sweeping roof-line. This lovely home is only one of hundreds of new houses which have been built in Canyon the past few years, showing the ever increasing need for residential buildings. And Canyon's building industry has boomed as contractors and builders have met the need. This home will not be in Canyon's Parade of Homes, which begins Sunday.

Goal For RCBC Home "Liveability"

Building of homes that are "liveable" is the primary concern of Tom R. Keeling founder of Randall County Building Company.

In addition to this liveability in homes built by RCBC, Tom aims for quality construction in each.

TOM KEELING

Since its founding in June, 1964, the company has constructed some five homes in Canyon, both in Pioneer Estates and Hidden Valley. Some of the building was speculative, but RCBC is now doing custom building.

The company not only does residential construction, but Tom notes that RCBC is also readily available for, and would like to do any commercial construction. Tom has some 12 years experience in commercial and industrial construction, while his foreman, O.L. Kirby, brings more than 25 years experience in construction.

Tom was born in October, 1928, and is married to the Mary Ann Bellah. The couple has three children, Keith, Scott, and Mary Kate.

For really quality building and planning, whether residential or commercial, Tom would welcome a call at OL 5-4621. RCBC will definitely try to help out. Trades for older homes can be made, and both conventional and FHA financing are readily available.

Visiting in the P. M. Wilson home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Tige Groves and Susy of Stinnett; the John Wilson family of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Hamil Wilson and children, Joyce and Warren of Pampa; Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Duncan and sons, Doyle and Cody, of Graham; and Mrs. Robert Groves and children, Kelly, Jo Angela and Robbie Jr., of Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Clark of Canyon also visited Sunday afternoon.

Before opening his offices here, he was involved in the banking business for 27 years.

He moved to Canyon in March, 1933, and opened an auto and loan business the following January.

From 1935 to 1952 he owned the Randall Motor Company in Canyon.

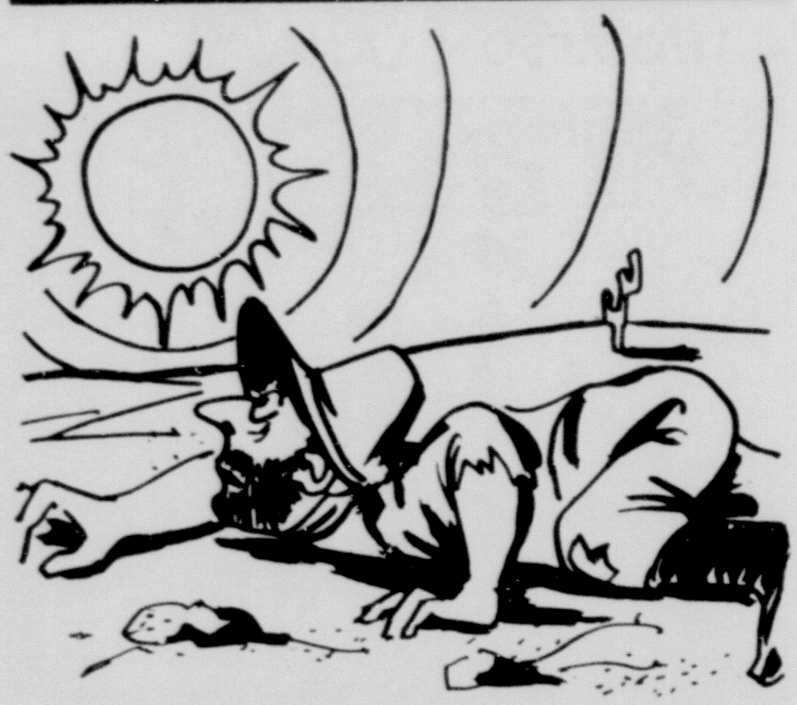

His company has been active in the growing business industry of Canyon and Randall County.

PTA Divides Next Year

Canyon's Parent Teacher Association will be divided into at least three divisions next year.

The decision came during a regular meeting of the organization Thursday night.

Bill Davis, president, said that members voted to split the PTA into at least three organizations.

"We will have a PTA organization representing Rex Reeves Elementary School, one representing the new elementary school in south Amarillo, and an organization for the high school and junior high school, if they want to organize," Davis explained.

Huelyn Laycock, superintendent, said organization of the PTA for the new school will begin when school starts in September.

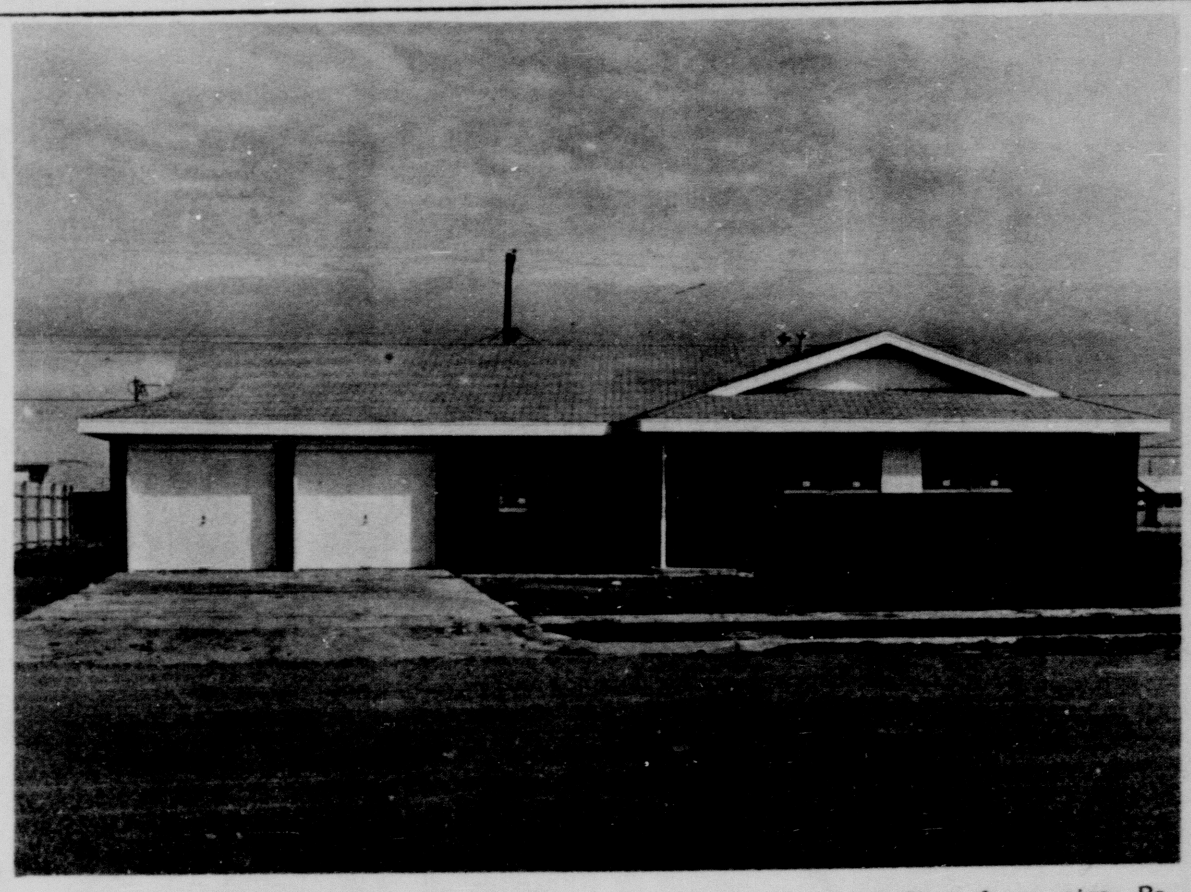

"We decided that the one organization was getting too large for all schools," Davis said, "and with the separation of schools, members won't have to travel so far."

Officers for the Rex Reeves Elementary School PTA will be elected and installed at the April 15 meeting.

Carey Conducts Band Clinic

Milburn Carey, director of music at Phillips University, will conduct a six-hour clinic for Canyon High School band today, Thursday.

Gary Zook, CHS band director, said Carey will conduct the clinic from 12:30 to 6:30 p.m. at the high school.

Growth Marks RAR

Founded in 1960, RAR Homes of Canyon is one of the fastest growing home construction companies in the Texas Panhandle.

Pooling their talents in spring of that year, Harold and Norris Root, and Joe Abbott, all of Canyon, began the company that was later to grow into a well-known custom building establishment.

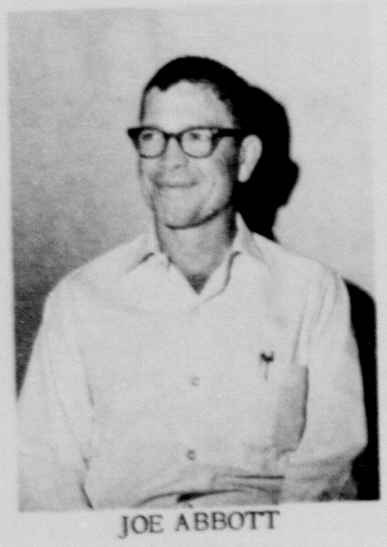

First home built by the company was that of R.A. Hodges, at 2517 Tenth Avenue. The three men worked foundation, framing, roof and all cabinet and finish work.

From that beginning of their first home, RAR has custom built more than 125 homes in the Panhandle. In Canyon, homes have been erected in Hunsley Hills, Ponderosa addition, and Hidden Valley, as well as throughout the town.

Commercial construction was begun by RAR in summer of 1962, when an eight unit apartment was built for Larry Holman at the corner of 27th Street and Eighth Avenue. Following the Holman construction, a contract was let for an 11-unit University Apartments for Lloyd Triplett.

The name RAR was by then associated with quality, and RAR was becoming Canyon's leading industry. In 1964, construction done by the company amounted to more than $850,000.00.

A total of 30 persons are now employed with the company, and as the town of Canyon continues its rate of growth, so will RAR Homes.

JOE ABBOTT

BILL STERNENBERG

Building supplies and equipment, Pittsburgh paint, hardware, ceiling and acoustical tile, picture frame moulding, and many different varieties of wallpaper to complement each wall in a new home, are included in supplies available from Sternenberg's.

Building services and consultation are also available from the experienced folks at Sternenberg Lumber Company.

Supplies for hobbies, such as furniture refinishing, or painting, can be found by looking at Sternenberg.

Exhibits By Perry Holley Go On Display Next Week

Wood carving and sculpture by Perry B. Holley of Midland, a cabinet maker whose "whittling" hobby developed into skillful art, will be displayed in a one-man show April 11 in the lounge of the Fine Arts Building at West Texas State University.

Sponsored by the WTSU art department, the show will be displayed for a month, according to Dr. Emilio Caballero, art department head. A reception for the artist and his wife has been arranged from 2 until 5 p.m. for the April 4 opening.

One of Holley's best-known works will not be shown. It is his wood sculpture of President Lyndon B. Johnson on horseback, modeled from a photograph of the President. The piece, which won national attention, was presented to Mrs. Johnson when she visited San Angelo last year.

Some of the carvings which will be exhibited include a number of pictures carved in relief of the western artists Fredric Remington and Charles Russell. Most of these average in size 30 by 40 inches, and include such Remington's as "Squaw Pony," "A Dash for Timber," and "Aiding a Comrade;" and such Russell's as "Wagon Boss," "A Bronc to Breakfast," and "Jerked Down."

Original carved paintings by Holley center mainly around religious themes, and include titles "The Carpenter," which shows Christ as a young man with the tools of his trade; "Nativity Scene," and "St. Francis." His statues have wide range from religious themes to western characters.

Holley and his wife grew up in Corsicana and graduated from high school there. He served four years in the Navy, and after World War II, he lived in Los Angeles where he worked as a cabinet maker before moving to Midland in 1950.

Holley's natural talent for carving and sculpture came to the fore after a serious accident in 1955. He fell from a ladder, breaking his back. A skillful surgeon repaired the damage, and though spinal bone-grafting surgery was necessary as late as last year, he has recovered.

One of Holley's best tools for carving is a scapel, given to him by the surgeon responsible for his recovery.

Holley prefers carving basswood, which has no grain, but he also works with hemlock, walnut, pine and other woods.

Three WT Professors Recognized

Three members of the West Texas State University school of business faculty have been selected "outstanding authorities" in their fields by the Mountain-Plains Business Education Association.

Regional recognition has been paid to Dr. C. C. Callarman, chairman of the school, Durwood Henderson, assistant professor, and Dr. Roland Johnson, associate professor.

Callarman was cited as "an authority in shorthand, transcription, and typewriting." Henderson, who is director of data processing at WTSU, was named "outstanding in automation." Dr. Johnson, who joined the WTSU school in September, is named "an authority in typewriting."

Recognition is based on "leadership, research, and contributions" in the different fields of business and business education. Those honored are selected by representatives of all states making up the Mountain-Plains region.

Nine Pledge Women's PE Fraternity

Nine women have been announced as pledges by Delta Psi Kappa, national women's physical education fraternity, at West Texas State University.

The fraternity was installed at WTSU last spring.

Pledges are Sheree Cannon of Claude, Shirley Oles of Claude, Sandra Turner of Seagraves, Fran Schiff of Canyon, Phyllis Butt of Clayton, N.M., Clarice Austin of Amarillo, Bobbie Dillard of Canyon, Virginia Gilbert of Amarillo, and Rosann Alexander of Canyon.

New officers named were Glynda Woodfin of Iowa Park, chaplain, and Judy Bowman of Amherst, sergeant-at-arms.

Canyon YWA's To House Party

A "house party" for the Young Women's Auxiliary of Baptist Churches of the Panhandle was staged at Wayland Baptist College in Plainview recently.

Seven members of the YWA of the First Baptist Church of Canyon were in attendance at the three-day meeting including Renee and Wanda Owen, Mickey Davis, Linda Allen, Carol Anderson, Martha Low, and Kay Schickedanz.

Serving as sponsors for the trip were Mrs. Tom Knighton and Mrs. Edwin Low.

Fire Damages Tucker Home

Fire at the Tommy Tucker home in Canyon did extensive damage to the one-story house Thursday night.

Canyon volunteer firemen answered the call at 7:17 p.m. Thursday to 1006 Seventh Avenue.

"By the time we discovered the fire and I called the fire department, I had to stand out on the front porch," exclaimed Mrs. Tucker.

The family, including four children, were at home at the time of the blaze.

"Our boy thought his pants were scorched, because he kept smelling the smoke," the distaught mother explained. "Then one of the girls opened the door into the bedroom and the door to the bathroom blew off and flames leaped almost clear across the room."

The bathroom and a bedroom were totally damaged, and heavy damage was reported in the rest of the house.

Firemen also answered a fire call Wednesday of last week eight miles west of Canyon.

A grass fire was reported on the Santa Fe right-of-way on the Umbarger highway.

While homes under construction are admittedly not very eye-appealing, quality construction is still evident in the basic structure. When completed, this home will be a lovely addition to Canyon's community of fine residences, adding beauty and grace.

BEAUTY is the theme for the 1965 Parade of Homes in Canyon, which will be held Sunday afternoon beginning at 1 o'clock. This lovely two-story home will be among the many on display Sunday, and is located at 414 Thompson Lane in Pioneer Estates. Ferrell Abbott is the builder of the brick home.

Abbott Adds To Growth

Another lovely home built by Ferrell Abbott of Canyon is open to the public now, with a second house to be completed within three weeks.

Ferrell Abbott, contractor in Canyon for the past five years, has built some 30 homes here.

"We do custom building and speculative building," said Abbott, "and we deal primarily with residential structures rather than business buildings," said Abbott concerning his business.

The home open now is located at 414 Thompson Lane. The three bedroom, 11/2story, home has two baths, living room, den, kitchen, and a double garage.

The opening of the next Ferrell Abbott home is coming soon. Just another stepforward in the growing building industry of Canyon.

FERRELL ABBOTT

RED BRICK of this home is accentuated with beautiful wood from Taylor & Sons Lumber Company in Canyon. T.H. Foster built the house, which joins many others in meeting the needs of Canyon residents. The many new homes spark the building industry in town as area builders, realtors and contractors work continuously to meet the ever-growing need for residential structures. This home will not be on the Parade of Homes exhibit, which begins Sunday.

Guests for a "42-- party recently at the Wayne Wilcox home were her sister, Mrs. Jack Brown, and husband from Dumas.

Attending from Canyon were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Miller and children, Debbie and Kevin, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Miller and daughter, Carolyn. Mrs. Earl Miller is a sister of Mrs. Wilcox and Mrs. Brown.
